SUMMARY REPORT

DS ADC 2207

Endodontics is a specialized branch of dentistry that focuses on the diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of diseases affecting the dental pulp. One of the most critical tools in this field is rotary endodontic instruments. These instruments, made of a nickel-titanium alloy, are designed to remove infected or damaged dental tissue from inside a tooth. Rotary endodontic instruments are electrically-powered tools used in root canal therapy to remove infected pulp tissue and shape the canal walls. These instruments feature flexible nickel-titanium tips that rotate at high speeds, allowing for more efficient and precise treatment compared to manual stainless-steel files. The nickel-titanium material is five times more flexible than stainless steel, enabling the instruments to navigate curved canals more easily.
